AUTO CARE

Washing your car and degreasing auto parts at home can send detergents, oils, and other automotive fluids through the storm drainage system. Dumping automotive fluids such as oils, gasoline, and coolants into storm drains or onto the ground has the same effect as dumping them directly into streams, rivers, and lakes.

- Use commercial car washes that treat or recycle their wastewater.
- Have routine maintenance performed on your automobile to prevent leaks.
- Properly dispose of automotive fluids. Utilize Household Hazardous Waste Roundups for fluid disposal.
- Utilize commercial oil change companies and auto parts stores who will accept your used motor oil.
